Sergeant Nancy Burns was born and raised in Miami, Florida. She is married with two sons. Sergeant Burns also has a Bachelor Degree in Criminal Justice.

Sergeant Burns originally began her career in law enforcement over twenty years ago as a Police Officer for the North Miami Police Department. She moved from Miami to Tallahassee and became employed as a Deputy with the Leon County Sheriff's Office. She is currently the Sergeant over the Crime Prevention Unit. Besides those duties, she is the agency coordinator for the Citizen's Academy and the liaison for the Citizen's Academy Alumni.

Sergeant Burns has attended the NCPAA conferences for the last six years and was appointed to the Board of Directors in 2009. She also serves on the Florida Crime Prevention Association's Board of Directors.

She loves her job in the crime prevention unit. She also enjoys the many new people she meets in her Citizen's Academies and values forming a new supportive relationship with her alumni members. Sergeant Burns feels that Citizen's Academies are one of the best educational and public relation tools any law enforcement agency can have. She encourages agencies to explore implementing Citizen's Academies and appreciates what the alumni and volunteers resulting from them can provide to their agency.
